2. Number and types of participants/target groups

The Event had 12 participants and took part at the Virtual Dimension Center in Fellbach. Due to the regulations of the maximum amount of possible persons it was stretched through the whole day. The Open-door day was intended for employees to show XR Hardware and our demonstrators, but anyone could take part.

3. Topics tackled and links to deliverables, outputs

- Welcome and introduction to the topic
- Reports from the participants on the current status of Implementation in the own company
- Try out of the hardware and demonstrators and obtain further information
- Exchange, questions, answers and consulting

4. Expected effects and follow up

The aim was to generate and exchange information about technologies, products, practical applications and field reports on XR Technologies from participants. Both hardware and software technologies were in focus. The participants could also present their own use cases and exchange ideas with each other to stimulate the participants and to be informed about promising implementations.

- Networking with participants out of business and industry
- Raising awareness of our network / hub

Developing a basic understanding of the benefits of V/AR technology and how it is used in practice. Participants got an overview of different industrial VR Hardware and use cases. They learned how the technology works and how it can be used. They were able to discuss their potential use cases and their own implementations.

Everyone was able to try out the hardware and demonstrators mentioned at the VDC directly and to obtain further information.

Follow Up:

The concept of a hybrid event with an online part and a physical part seems to have great potential. It is possible to not only exchange information on something purely informative but also to try out something that was shown.
