1.2 Public domain Gala in the Komló theatre.

During the event of the Open Industrial Heritage Days (Borbála's days) at the Komló Theater, Levente Császár's (he is a famous local folklore writer) book entitled "The Nine Frontiers", set for the future, was staged. The fairy-tale of the settlements of Hegyhát was processed by Ede Figura a locally famous stage-artist, performer. According to tradition, this year's gala will be performed by the artistic groups of the region - singers, performers, dancers - on stage. "Based on my nine years of experience, I can say that the Public Treasury Gala is one of the crowns of the cultural and creative industry's cooperation." The past galas have always been linked to the different cultural steps and elements of the development of the Hungarian national consciousness, which have been processed on stage," said József Polics in his opening speech. This year's event series are linked especially to the industrial past and creates at the same time a connection to the present problems, the Identity the emigration of the younger population and the creation of the local employment which would make this region more attractive - added the Mayor.

- 1.3LSG meeting subject of the precession and results of the CE1013 REFREsh Interreg project. The meeting focused on the achieved results joint regional strategy, the completion of the investment, and the coming of pilot actions involving more the local population and the newly elected body of the Municipality.
- 1.4Ceremonial opening of the regional craftsmen products (Mr. György Árgyelán photographer; Mr. Ferenc Bálint Graphic artist; Mr. Ferenc Takács painter; Mr. Gábor Gyenizse woodcarver artist; Mr. Vilmos Kovacsics sculptor; Mrs. Ágnes Kincses embroiderer) This exhibition will be held in the older wing of the building but as soon as the investment of the exhibition hall will be finished these kind of exhibition presenting the local creative industry products will be hosted there.
- 1.5 Film event presenting the old craftsmanship and the very valuable skill of old craftsmen and their art. Short documentaries.
- 1.6 Ceremonial closing of the Industrial Heritage Days at the memorial site in front of the town hall, homage and ignition of a candles. Closing thoughts by Mr. Zoltan Jégl the chairman of the association of respect to Komló
- 1.7Borbala day's mass at the Roman catholic church, following a torchlight procession and parade to the Borbala Cross; maintaining the industrial mining heritage which lifted the settlement out of villages and made it one of the most important town in the country during the 50's and 60's of the last century.

4. Summary:

The Open Industrial Heritage days event series lasted for 6 days in Komló. Komló always focuses on the preservation of the industrial tradition especially the mining tradition. The history of the second biggest settlement in Baranya county emerged as an insignificant and poor village thanked to the good quality black coal treasure at the beginning of the XX.th century. It became during the communist era in the 50's one of the most significant town in the whole country receiving the 1/5 th of the industrial development resources of the country. After closing the mines in 2000 the town started to decline and they try to find the way out of this depression which is linked to the loss of the population. The creative industry is one of the most important outbreaks point from this situation. Therefore, in this year they involved more crafts people from the cultural and creative field to show their products and ability under the frame of the REFREsh project. We introduced the recently finished exposition hall which could host the creative industry's events and serve as a center of their activities in the future. In this year we invited a photographer, craftsmen, a beekeeper who won one of the most important prizes in the country with his product, and involved a gala evening in the local theatre where the region's folklore was staged in a modernized version. We were commemoration at the same time to the mining past and famous locally known poets and historian, saluting to the cultural past making it more popular to the younger population.
