Within the framework of the activity, ARRSA together with its partner from Slovenia - University of Maribor have developed technical assumptions and programmed the website www.precision-fam40.com .

The website contains a catalog developed by all partners together with a map of localization and additional information on individual items, companies and centers.

The website has been hosted on the ARRSA server and is available to the public. It will also be used to upload further documents and studies aimed at promoting precision agriculture.
